Shepherd's Corner

So he got up ...

Matthew 2:14, 21

The first Christmas in history is not as silent and peaceful as we imagine it to be. Out of a sudden, everyone in the quiet town of Bethlehem became terrified when several wise men from the East were sighted at Jerusalem, trying to find out the whereabout of baby Jesus. There were fears over the prospect of losing their positions of power as well as lives of stability (Matthews 2:1-3)

Fast forward to this day, Christmas is celebrated within a bustling atmosphere filled with great joy and steeped in festive mood. However, the world hasn't become that different for all that dazzle and bustle of fun spilling into the streets and within the homes all around us. On the contrary, an air of anxiety is looming over the heads of everyone coming from the long shadow cast by the pandemic and its aftermath. Since ancient days, people have been sighing over the harsh realities they have to face immediately in the wake of such short spells of joy. Our pressing question is this: where can we find hope in a world that is staggering in and overwhelmed by anxiety whichever way we go?

The approach taken by Joseph and Mary towards the birth of Jesus is an example for us to emulate. Be it their flight out of Egypt or final settling down in Nazareth after their return to Israel, the bible uses the same expression "So he got up …" (Matt 2:14, 21) to describe how Joseph reacted each time he received the instruction from God. In other words, they would have to relocate three times in all.

I am sure that everyone of us knows all about the hassle and inconvenience involved in relocating to a new place of abode. Nonetheless, they believed that total obedience to the instructions from God would be the best decision to make, as they trust that the wise and omnipotent God will never, never forsake them. Instead, He will guide them safely throughout this crisis, no matter what it takes.

Similarly, we are to place our hopes on His Promises when we are looking at uncertainties that come in various forms and at different times upon us. The greatest Gift of all – His only Son, Jesus, is as real and eternal as it is Heavenly in nature. Are you feeling fearful, as you anticipate frightening and seemingly hopeless scenes to play out anytime, right before your eyes? We welcome you to embrace the safety in the Anchor of Hope offered by Lord Jesus for your spirit to find rest. May He guide you every step along the way, so that you go will not be tossed about or drifting at the mercy of the ebb and flow of a world floundering around in turbulence. Remember: your days ahead brim with Hope as you clasp His Hands in yours, as He leads the way ahead.

May God shower you and your loved ones with His choicest blessings in the season of Christmas and the New Near ahead!

THE SECRET TO BECOMING WISE PARENTS

Parents show their love to their children in their own ways. Some pamper them, others discipline them. It is important for them to be able to feel the warmth and true love coming from parents. Otherwise, they would grow up into temperamental adults and feel that they are under pressure.

BOOK OF MATTHEW

"Lord Jesus did not place Himself to stand in front of the Jews and his captors. Instead, He chose to stand in front of our Heavenly Father ---- May the Will of our Father be done. May His promise come to pass." These words from Preacher Shi Wei touched me deeply and led me to rethink my attitudes towards various events that took place in my life.
