A New Direction, A New Vision: GR Oikonomia

Many believers receive the message on Sunday, only to find themselves unsure how to live out their faith in real life by Monday. Many churches and organizations are eager to train disciples, yet struggle with the lack of a systematic, replicable pathway and resources. This Easter, GLOBAL REACHOUT responds to this need with the launch of a brand-new platform——

GR Oikonomia

https://oikonomia.global-reachout.org

Oikonomia is a global disciple resources platform designed to help believers live out their faith within both family and workplace contexts, experiencing ongoing growth and multiplication in life. It also equips them to faithfully steward their time, resources, and influence — Oikonomia — so as to fulfil their mission.

To this end, the Oikonomia is more than a platform; it is a spiritual trust and a call to action. We have designed three different types of participation and pathways to cater the needs of different users. These are:

1. Individual Users | Growth Pathway

— Video courses: Purchase courses and receive a systematic package of accompanying e-books.

— Print book courses: Access to the corresponding video courses through redemption codes included in the books.

— Purpose: To help individuals build a lifelong, sustainable spiritual resource system for continual growth in daily life.

2. Group Users | Discipleship Pathway

There are five levels of participation: Companion, Rooted, Builder, Multiplier, Sender

Objective: In Churches, Christian entrepreneurs, or small groups, discipleship can be advanced through “church version” courses. Or, values can be transformed through “social version” courses.

3. Partner Users | Multiplication Pathway

Through partnership relationships, paid training is conducted externally to prepare the ground and expand discipleship training across regions, achieving multiplication of disciple-making and global impact.

We believe that when believers are equipped in the workplace, the family becomes the starting point of discipleship; each person faithfully stewards and releases the God-given resources, and the Kingdom of God will be visibly manifested in our society.

As disciples actively rise up in workplaces, homes, churches, and online—forming small groups, building relationships and walking in continual accompaniment—hearts will be opened, communities renewed, and society transformed.

Whether you are seeking to accelerate your personal growth, help others in your church or organization, or expand gospel ministry, we sincerely invite you to join this discipleship journey, from “being equipped” to “equipping others”; from “receiving” to “multiplying.”For information on the briefing sessions, please refer to the announcement in Intercessions Section.

Audience Feedback

New Testament Overview 09

This study is encouraging and motivating, mostly to understand that sure as Christians we will face opposition.

Self-Help Psychology Online Training

1. I learned from the Johari Window that I need to understand myself in the right way and bravely open up to build relationships with others. These include: distinguishing facts from interpretations, avoid over-interpretations, do more observations, listening, encouragements and more practice on effective communications.

(Wang)

2. Giving and receiving form a cycle.Receiving is often more difficult, as it requires humility and courage. Mere giving by itself may serve to feed our pride. A combination of giving and receiving helps to form our character and lead us towards holistic growth.

(Liew)

3. This course reminds me to respond to challenges with a positive mindset, as we learn and grow in the process.

(Li)

4. This course has taught me to take ownership for myself. This does not mean the other person is without fault, though; it reflects a choice to move toward a more positive attitude and breakthrough.

Let The Truth Restart Your Life

The blind spot in human relationships often lies in forgetting to build a good relationship with oneself.

The speaker Dr. Li is a senior clinical psychologist, psychiatrist and seminary lecturer with more than 20 years of experience in psychological counselling under his belt. Using Bible narratives and real-life case studies, he explores how we can develop self-awareness in interpersonal relationships, tune our inner "frequency," and live a more empowered life grounded in truth.

2 Recommended Reading: Monday Disciples

We warmly recommend a new book authored by Dr Michelle Liew, the Executive Chairman of GLOBAL REACHOUT— Monday Disciples.

Many believers experience a familiar tension: they worship wholeheartedly on Sundays, only to feel unsure in the workplace on Mondays. It is as though faith belongs to the church, while daily labour is just about bread and butter. Yet the Bible teaches us that the workplace is, in fact,the frontline of God's Kingdom.

This book helps believers rediscover the fact that work is a calling and the workplace is a harvest field. It offers a systematic exploration of reshaping one's identity, integration of anointing, and how to transform culture in real-life contexts—providing both churches and believers with a clear and practical blueprint for workplace discipleship.

The book has received joint endorsements from seminary scholars,pastors,and workplace leaders, comes with a companion video course to be launched on 24 June 2026.

If you long to live out on Monday what you believe on Sunday, and to be a true light and salt in the workplace—this book and course will be your starting point.

3 Secrets to a Thriving Marriage Online Training

Programme scheduled from 20 May through 24 June 2026

Broadcast time-slots: Every Wednesday, 8:00–9:30 PM (Singapore Time)

Want to move beyond "in-fighting" in your relationship? Of course, every happy marriage has its own "prescriptions"!

This course is led by senior counsellor Ms. Yuan Fong Choo. With topics ranging from "a fulfilling marriage calls for management" right down to identifying "toxic patterns in marriage," she guides participants step by step to recognize often-overlooked issues in married life, and to gain a clearer understanding of one's own immature views of what marriage is about.

We encourage believers to register and recommend it to non-believing friends amongst them, so as to build a healthy marriage together.
