As Working for the Lord..

(Colossians 3:23)

Today, the workplace has evolved into an integral part of our everyday lives. It also plays arena to those who chase after material successes and targets in their own lives. Come to think of it, as disciples of the Risen Christ ourselves, are we also putting these heavenly values aside all too often in order to focus on the benefits beckoning at us? Let us meditate on this pearl of wisdom at the workplace that reminds us to set our sights on Eternity instead of what is but a fleeting moment.

Colossians 3:23 says, "Whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for human masters." This reminds us that our actions and decisions should be guided by our faith, as we set out with a fear of God and love towards our fellowmen at the workplace.

These words, "...as working for the Lord..." calls upon each of us to serve God through our daily work. We are to see our work as a ministry to be carried out for His Glory. Being armed with such a mindset has a far-reaching impact on our working career, and uplifts our thrust to work with greater passion and stronger commitment – as we are now inspired by greater mindfulness that our labours are not just gunning towards accruing more benefits for ourselves, but driven by the call to glorify His Name instead.

These words, "...not for human masters...", reminds us that a working career is neither about just fronting ourselves with a shiny image, nor fulfilling the expectatiions from our bosses, colleagues, family and friends. More than all of these.Supremely, it is also our offering to Him. While it is important to stand out in our performance and earn respect from people around us, it is even more crucial for us to ensure that heavenly values, insistence on ethics, morality, justice and compassionate love shine through as we go through these duties from day to day.

It not unusual for us to work under tough competition and heavy pressures at the workplace. Yet, we are taught to go for targets that embody eternal values, rather than go for successes that do not last. A Christian does not size up an ideal job based on just high salaries and quick promotions up the corporate ladder. Far beyond that. He sees opportunities for him to spread love, compassion, righteousness and Truth as well.

Our work is a vehicle for us to build up the Kingdom for the Lord! May we look beyond fleeting gains and losses and set our sights to treat every person and matter we come across at the workplace with true sincerity and honesty of heart. Be earnest and considerate in every word and action from your hearts and hands. Turn your assigned tasks into stepping stones under your feet that leads you to Glory on the other Shore!

Happy Families – Emerging from the Storm

I concur with the views. Indeed, a patient approach and a forgiving heart can lead to positive results. It is a healthy and joyful investment that brings benefits to the recipient even as it showers tremendous blessings to the giver.

Workplace Habits Springing From The Heart

It is important for one to learn about leading himself, knowing himself and melding his strengths and advantages with his career growth before he takes up the reins of team leadership. At the same time, he should rely on the contributions and participation of each and every team member to max his values conferred from above and reach his target.
