To Discern What is Best

Philippians 1:10

Within just two months of its launch, ChatGPT (Chat Generation Pre Training Converter, abbreviated as Conversation Robot) has had over 100 million active users, far surpassing any previous online application. In this regard, it can be said that some people are happy while others are worried. What makes people happy is that ChatGPT has the ability to provide answers to questions that can be posed in written form, regardless if it is right or wrong. However, it is precisely this powerful and fast feature that worries many people from different fields.

Should we be worried about this trend? How should Christians respond to the challenges brought by AI? There are already many good articles for reference on this discussion, but here we will only consider one practical question: "How should we respond? "

According to the current functionality of ChatGPT, its advantage lies in quickly expressing complex and difficult knowledge in the most understandable text. However, whether ChatGPT can provide valuable information often depends on the issues entered by the user. In other words, the accuracy of ChatGPT responses depends on the accuracy of user questioning. This also means that if we know how to ask more effective questions, ChatGPT can provide more valuable information.

From the Bible, we can see that Jesus' questions often hit the nail on the head and go straight to the core of the problem. For example, when many people are confused about Jesus' identity, the question he asks his disciples is, "Who do you say I am?" When facing a person who has been ill for thirty-eight years and is lying lame in Bethesda, Jesus' question is, "Do you want to recover?" Of course, Jesus' most direct question to the heart is the sentence in John 8:7: "Who among you is sinless? Whoever can first stone her."

The current ChatGPT, as well as other intelligent tools that follow, may be an inevitable trend of this era and a challenge that we cannot avoid. Therefore, we need to ask ourselves, "Do I know what kind of question to ask?" If the answer is yes, we can discern God's will from these trends, just as Paul exhorts the Philippians church – may be able to discern what is best and may be pure and blameless for the day of Christ.

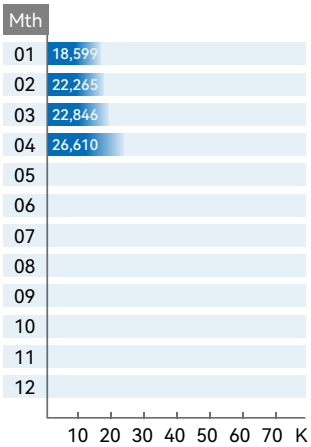

Look forward to fellowshiping with brothers and sisters and together we face the challenge! Please email to: knowHIM@global-reachout.org

Happy Families

Thanks for sharing of "Marriage Building Starts with Me". May the Lord bless the work in your hands with grace and strength, and enabling you a blessing for many people

(Ps. Zhang, Singapore, 17/4/2023)

Challenges @ the Marketplace

Congratulations on the successful conclusion of your "Challenges @ Marketplace". Those who work hard will surely reap full rewards!

(Teacher Hua, China, 25/4/2023)

After listening to Lesson 8, it is easier to identify the breakthrough point of looking at the issue of employee turnover from both perspectives. Both leaders and employees need to care for each other. At the same time, I was also inspired by the decision you made for the company during the global financial crisis.

(Jenny, China, 24/2/2023)

Book of Genesis

Taking the history and the life experiences of spiritual predecessors as a guide, I felt that the program has called for many attentions to me today.

(Sister Xiao, Singapore, 10/5/2023)

Thanks God that the "Challenges @ Marketplace" Face-to-Face Forum with our special guest of honor Dr. Michelle Liew has come to a success, with participants expressing views of great benefits!

Home Matters & Intercession

1

On 25-May 2023, the Chinese Congress Center on World Evangelization (CCCOWE) will host a roundtable meeting, and Dr. Michelle Liew, Executive Chairman of GR, has been invited to speak as one of the three keynote speakers. The purpose of the meeting is to connect Christian leaders from around the world who are burdened and experienced in workplace mission, and to explore the forward-looking issues in today's workplace mission. Please uphold this meeting in prayer that the Lord may use this sharing and discussion mightily, such that churches and institutions may work together to gather resources and launch the workplace discipleship mission movement.

2

GR will launch short video program targeting young people starting August 12, 2023, titled "Youth Shines, Dreams Fly". Please pray for this and may the Heavenly Father grant wisdom, ability, and bring in more participants.

3

Further to our current video programme "Happy Families" that is geared towards the general public (including Christians and non-Christians), we will also be offering a new family program category "The Glorious Home" for Christians as discipleship. We welcome pastors and preachers from churches as well as lecturers from theology colleges to join us as speakers. Please contact Sis Loh at juatkew.loh@global-reachout.org for more info.

4

Thanks to the leadership of God, Dr. Michelle Liew, Executive Chairman of GR, had the opportunity to meet with Rev Dr Francis Ngoi, Director of Oasis Family Life Enrichment Centre, to deepen mutual understanding and explore the possibility of cooperation. Please pray that God may lead the two institutions in kingdom partnership to producing a beautiful effect of "one plus one being greater than two".

Welcome to download the GR App for speedier and easier access to our program series on family and workplace, including audio, visual and ebook materials.
